

Purchase of land announced

A decision to buy 12.5 acres of land, adjacent to a 4.7-acre site that has been designated as a new city park, was announced at Monday night's council meeting.

Fourth Ward Democrat David Curry, chairman of the council's public building and grounds committee, explained the city's purchase of the property, for $40,000, is contingent on the city receiving a $20,000 federal matching grant. The grant would be awarded through the State Bureau of Outdoor Recreation.

The property is owned by Dr. John S. Riddlebarger of Bartlesville, Okla. If the additional land is added to the original 4.7 acre tract, the 17.2-acre triangular-shaped property would be bordered by 24th street on the south, Grand Avenue on the east and Clinton Road on the north.

The 4.3 acre tract was included in an original seven-acre tract at Grand and Clinton Road purchased by the Sedalia Water Department for $25,000. The property was purchased as the site for a new water tower complex. After it was determined that the entire property would not have to be used for the water tower, the water department sold 4.3 acres to the city last October for $21,980.

The city has already applied for a matching grant to pay half the cost of this purchase. No reply has been received on the request.

Before city officials could request a matching grant from the State Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, environmental impact and proposed useage reports had to be filed. The environmental impact report on the 4.3 acre land tract was performed by Butler and Associates, Kansas City.

However, to save money, the environmental impact on the proposed 12.5 acre land purchase will be undertaken by Mayor Jerry Jones and city Economic Development Director John Hequembourg, Jones said.

Jones and City Recreation Director Roscoe Righter both expressed confidence that the matching fund requests will be granted by the state.

City Council delays Cablevision action

By TOM MAUPIN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Once again Monday night the City Council put off discussion of a proposed city ordinance that would give Cablevision a 15-year franchise at an annual franchise tax payment of 3 per cent to the city.

Mayor Jerry Jones said the council will meet with Cablevision manager Lynn Harrison again at 7 p.m. Monday in the Municipal Building to discuss the ordinance.

"There are quite a few sections I don't like," Jones said, "and other councilmen have expressed similar feelings to me."

The proposed ordinance was written by Cablevision's attorney, James Buckley, and reportedly modeled on other ordinances covering CATV franchises throughout the country.

Harrison presented the ordinance to the council in a special meeting last Monday. At that time only one copy was available, however.

If approved by the council, the ordinance would amend an existing ordinance giving the CATV firm a 10-year franchise at a 10 per cent tax payment.

It is also expected the council will look further into a recent audit of Cablevision at the May 12 session.

The council agreed to employ Triple-A Elevator Sales Co., Kansas City, for monthly servicing of the Municipal Building elevator. The cost of the service will be $55 a month and, according to Jones, will cover lubrication and inspection.

First Ward Republican Allen Hawkins will look into the purchase or rental of an ice making machine for the streets and alleys and the sanitation departments. The departments use 250 pounds of ice a day during warm weather for drinking water coolers on the trucks. In the past the men have complained of finding debris in the ice the city purchased for them, Hawkins said.

Hawkins also asked Jones if Police Officer John Filicetti is being paid a sergeant's salary.

"I've heard rumors," Hawkins said, "and I like to break rumors."

Jones advised Hawkins to check with the city clerk for the answer.

A spokesman for the clerk's office Tuesday said Filicetti's regular salary is $625 per month. His last monthly paycheck, however, was for $771. The added amount was overtime pay, it was reported.

Hawkins also asked if Filicetti was acting as the night detective for the police department.

"Not to my knowledge," Jones said. He added that every officer on the department should have the "knowledge to investigate a crime."

Fourth Ward Democrat David Curry questioned the possibility of planting trees along the business section of South Ohio. Curry said a merchant had approached him on the idea.

Curry said the merchant wanted to plant eight-foot trees in front of his business and wanted the city to break 12-to 24-inch openings in the sidewalk for the trees.

"I feel this is a way of beautifying the downtown," Curry said.

Second Ward Democrat Raymond Bales said the planting of trees along the sidewalk would hinder the opening of car doors.

The other Second Ward Democrat, Ira Knox, said the trees would attract birds. Curry responded by saying the birds would not roost in the trees due to their closeness to the sidewalk.

Jones said some city ordinances would have to be changed to allow the trees. No action was taken on the matter.

The council did approve liquor-by-the-drink licenses to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Elks and the Moose Clubs. A recently amended city ordinance required those clubs to purchase the licenses.

Also appearing before the council Monday night was Harold Hammond, 103 Southwest Blvd. Court, who complained of water flowing from the street in front of his house through his back yard and eroding the land at the back of his yard.

He wanted the city to pay for a drainage pipe to carry the water from his property. He said he has already paid $520 to haul dirt onto his property in an effort to solve the problem.

The policy of the city, Jones said, has always been to provide the manpower if the property owners buy the pipes at the city's price rate.

Curry argued for Hammond that the problem was caused by the water running off city streets and should be controlled by the city.

An estimate of pipe cost will be made by Public Works Director Bob Cunningham.

In other action, the council opened bids for traffic paint and rocks.

The only paint bid was from W. C. Cramer Construction Co., 109 East Second, which bid $811.20 for 160 gallons of white road paint; $1,176 for 200 gallons of yellow road paint, and $68.80 for 40 gallons of thinner. The bid was turned over to the council's police, gas and lights committee.

Bidding on the construction rocks were Howard Construction Co., 1509 North Ohio, and W. J. Menefee Construction Co., 2500 West 16th.

The total Howard bid was $28.48 per ton for 4,750 tons of nine types of construction rocks.

For the same rocks, except for 500 tons of rip-rap stone, the Menefee bid amounted to $20.65 per ton. These bids were sent to the council's streets and alley's committee.

Gas leak inspections revealed

City Building Inspector Woodrow Garrison and representatives of the Missouri Public Service Co., city sanitation department and city fire department have been regularly inspecting two local homes during the past three weeks for evidence of gasoline leaks, it was reported Tuesday.

At Monday night's City Council session, Third Ward Democrat Bob Wells reported residents at 1904 South Ohio and 1901 South Osage had complained about gas fumes in their homes recently. Occupants of the homes are Woodrow Brown and Mrs. Edythe Jones at 1901 South Osage and Dilbert Clark at 1904 South Ohio.

After an initial investigation, Garrison said, it was discovered the problem was created when an employee of the Conoco Oil Co. recently filled underground gasoline storage tanks used by the Holsum Bread Co., 108 West 17th. The tanks were located in an alley next to the building.

Garrison said when the employee transferred gas from the tank wagon to the storage tanks, a safety nozzle, which automatically turns off the flow of gas when the tank is filled, was not in use. Such nozzles, he said, are similar to those used at most service stations.

The extent of the overflow could not be determined, Garrison said. One fact complicating the problem, Garrison said, is that the gas that seeped into the ground does not evaporate very quickly.

"It's hard to get rid of. About all you can do is wait it out," Garrison said.

Officials of the Missouri Public Service Co. have inspected the homes and reported there is a possibility the fumes might ignite. Some officials urged that residents keep their homes properly ventilated to avoid a possible accident.

In other business, Wells complained the city ordinances prohibiting the accumulation of junk in front of yards are not being enforced.

Junior College aid bills pass

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Both houses of the Missouri Legislature have passed different increases in state junior college aid.

While the House version, given final approval, would provide almost $29 per credit hour per student next year, the tentatively-approved Senate bill would call for $20 per credit hour. The current state aid is about $16.65 per credit hour.

Meanwhile Monday, the Senate rejected a pay hike for county court judges as the House gave final passage to measures boosting court reporters pay from $12,000 to $15,000 a year. The House also okayed a salary increase for all magistrate judges except those in the city of St. Louis.

The Senate's junior college aid bill would provide $20 a credit hour next year and $24 in fiscal 1976-1977. After that, the state would fund up to 50 per cent of the student credit hour costs.

Gov. Christopher S. Bond has supported increased junior college aid this year. Last year, however, Bond vetoed a junior college aid bill, saying the hike had not been budgeted.

The defeated pay increase for county judges would have raised salaries of the three-judge panels in second, third and fourth class counties.

The size of the hike would depend on the county's assessed valuation. For example, a $8,500 annual salary would jump to $13,000 in second class counties with a valuation of more than $250 million.

Sen. William Waters, D-Liberty, said the county judge pay hike shouldn't be considered until after the proposed 47 per cent salary increase for legislators. The bill on legislators salaries would raise their annual pay from $8,400 to $12,400.

The House-approved pay raise for magistrate judges also expands their potential duties to ease crowded circuit court dockets.

Bond vetoed the pay hikes for magistrates and court reporters last year when they were included in an overall pay hike for judges.

In a night session, the House gave preliminary approval to more than a dozen measures that make corrective changes in laws passed during previous sessions.

Action on three of the revision measures was delayed, however, after some House members objected to them on the grounds that they or proposed amendments to them contained substantive changes in law rather than mere revisions of deficient statutory language.

One of those measures, in the form of an amendment, proposed to repeal the state's controversial ambulance law and another would have re-enacted legislation that was repealed by passage of the law allowing public school districts to lend textbooks to private schools.

That law was declared unconstitutional by the state Supreme Court last year, and supporters of re-enactment of the old law said it was necessary to permit the state Board of Education to provide public schools with textbooks.

The third bill made numerous updating changes in the statutes as a result of state reorganization.

Pandas not prurient

WASHINGTON (AP) — In delicate terms, it was youthful inexperience which cut short hopes for the first American-born panda bear this year.

"Ling Ling just doesn't seem to have figured it out," National Zoo General Curator Jaren Horsley said of the male side of a week-long attempt to mate the bears, first shipped to the United States in April 1972 as a symbol of Chinese-American detente.

With the exception of one day, the pandas were together from April 25 at least once daily until Sunday, when zoo officials declared the mating season had ended. By then Ling Ling and the female Hsing Hsing had fallen out and were turning their backs on one another.

By all accounts, there was no lack of passion before then. Hsing Hsing bit Ling Ling's ear and there were growling noises never heard before.

Horsley said there were a few embraces, one as long as 20 seconds, but the animals were never together enough for Hsing Hsing to become pregnant, if Chinese bear authorities are to be believed.

"He would go to one side and then the other. He never zeroed in," said zoo spokeswoman Billie Hamlet. "She (Hsing Hsing) gave him every opportunity."

"He just couldn't seem to find the spot," said Ms. Hamlet, who prefers that honorific. "He was inexperienced and inept."

Horsley said there is an extremely tiny chance that Hsing Hsing may be pregnant, but he doubts it. No one will know for sure for another few months.

Meanwhile, the two pandas are again caged apart after the second attempt to mate them. Ling Ling (now 4 years old) and Hsing Hsing (4½) have plenty of time, Horsley said.

If she shows any romantic or instinctive interest this fall, another try may be made. If not, they will be reunited next spring, when Ling Ling will be older and perhaps wiser and more worldly.

DEATH NOTICES

Police apprehend woman inmate

Sedalia police apprehended an inmate of the state Correctional Center for Women Monday afternoon after she left the campus of State Fair Community College.

Sherry Spann, 28, of St. Louis, was taking secretarial courses at SFCC under a program established in January.

She walked away from the campus about 2:40 p.m. and was taken into custody by police about 4 p.m. at Thompson Hills Shopping Center, police said.

The woman is serving a five-year sentence at the Tipton penal institution on a burglary charge from St. Louis County.

She was turned over to the Moniteau County sheriff's department Monday night to be taken back to Tipton.

Under the program approved by the college's board of trustees, women inmates are allowed to take courses in nurses' aid training, business and office courses, and other programs.

The inmates are accompanied to the college by a corrections officer.

SFCC President Fred Davis said Monday afternoon he did not know the exact number of Tipton inmates now enrolled.

Davis said the incident would not affect the program, as far as he is concerned.

Symphony's performance considered 'best' ever

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Behind stage Monday night, Sedalia Symphony conductor Abe Rosenthal did something he has rarely done in four decades of local orchestral directing — he kissed and fondly embraced a guest artist.

His daughter, Mrs. Willis Ann Ross, and fellow Omaha Symphony flutist David Van de Bogart, had joined the local orchestra to help crown its 40th concert season. Rosenthal later termed Monday night's performance "the best we have ever had. I mean it. It really think this was the most outstanding."

Mrs. Ross and de Bogart joined in three numbers, Divertissement For Two Flutes and Spring Orchestra by Bach, "Echo" by Burneister and Trio No. 3 in G Major by Haydn. The tonal quality, inflection and timing of the two artists were faultless. Perhaps the most interesting aspect of the performances was the complete synchronization between the two flutists and the orchestra, considering the two groups had limited opportunity to practice together.

This graceful union was perhaps most readily apparent in the Bach, a four-movement piece consisting of a sprightly allegro, a slower-paced andante, a somewhat stately grazioso and, in the end, a brisk rondo. In Burneister's work, Mrs. Ross, off-state, provided a chirping repeat of de Bogart's on-stage melodies. Accompanying the duet in their rendition of Haydn's composition was cellist Robert Stewart.

The symphony itself was outstanding in its performances of Hadley's "Herod Overture," Ovanin's "Hatikvah," Gold's "Exodus" theme song and a medley of songs from Rogers and Hammerstein's musical "The King and I."

Like most overtures, "Herod" contained contrasting musical themes designed to illustrate the varying scenarios of the dramatic production it is scheduled to prelude. The orchestra expertly conveyed these multiple moods.

In performing the "Hatikvah" (Israeli national anthem) and the theme song from the movie "Exodus," the orchestra introduced many members of the audience to a less widely-known Jewish song and reacquainted them with a more familiar one reflecting a significant period in modern Jewish history. The "Exodus" theme performance was highlighted by many suitably interpretive piano passages by Dr. T. S. Hopkins.

In their "King and I" selections, the symphony glided from one familiar tune to another as "Getting to Know You" gracefully yielded to the perky "Whistle Happy Tune." The lilting strains of "Shall We Dance?" near the end of the musical medley, was particularly uplifting.

A special side note to the evening came after Mrs. Ross had completed her final number. At that time, she was presented a bouquet of white roses by violinist Margaret Edwards, the only charter member of the Sedalia Orchestra Symphony still actively performing in the group.

Truck-pedestrian mishap fatal for Sedalia woman

An elderly Sedalia woman became Sedalia's first traffic fatality of the year at 9:21 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. Venetie C. King, 65, 1303 East Fifth, died as the result of multiple injuries she suffered when she was struck by a pickup truck at 16th and State Fair Blvd.

The accident occurred, police reported, as Mrs. King was walking near the main gate of the State Fairgrounds when she suddenly turned and walked into the path of a truck headed east on 16th and driven by Walter L. Petree, 56, 1728 East Seventh.

The 1969 Dodge pickup struck about 30 feet before striking Mrs. King.

Pettis County Coroner Dr. John Owens said Tuesday that Mrs. King died as the result of massive internal injuries. She was pronounced dead at 9:40 p.m. at Bothwell Hospital, where she was taken by ambulance.

No arrests were made in connection with the accident.

Mrs. King was born in Florence, Feb. 23, 1910, daughter of the late Jim and Lizzie Kurtz Hays. She was married to Frank Adams on June 18, 1932, and he preceded her in death March 27, 1951. On July 14, 1967, she was married to Hollie King at Sedalia.

Mrs. King had been a resident of Sedalia for 35 years.

She is survived by her husband, of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Curt (Ellen) Knox, 2510 Dennis Road; Mrs. Henry

Two armed robbers escape with cash

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Two black men escaped with about $1,000 following an armed robbery at the Wood & Huston Drive-In Bank here Monday night.

Michael Williams, manager of the Sirlon Stockade restaurant here, arrived at the bank about 10:45 p.m. to make a night deposit, according to a spokesman for the Marshall police department. Williams was approached and his money demanded while he was still seated in his car, the spokesman said.

The robbers reportedly got about $950 in cash and $50 in checks in two bank bags carried by Williams. One of the two men had an automatic pistol, police said.

The two, both described as 18 to 22 years old, reportedly ran to a nearby car and escaped.

The get-away car was described as a white over dark blue, late-1960s model. It was not known whether anyone was waiting in the car.

Raymond P. Wilson

HOUSTON, Tex. — Raymond P. Wilson, formerly of Sedalia, died in an Austin, Tex., hospital Sunday from injuries he suffered in an automobile accident.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. N. Hanpeter.

Survivors include his wife, Margaret Ann, of the home; one son, George Allen Wilson, stationed in Germany with the U.S. Army; four daughters, Mrs. Billy Burt, Dickerson, Tex.; Michelle Wilson, Houston; Paula and Lisa Wilson, both of the home; and one grandchild.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Howard-Glendale Funeral Home, Houston, with burial in a Houston Cemetery.

Samuel A. Gravitt

Funeral services for Samuel A. Gravitt, 74, 330 West Saline, who died Saturday as the result of a shooting incident, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Ward Memorial Baptist Church with the Rev. W. F. Fortune officiating.

Pallbearers will be Preston Toley, J. D. Quantrel, Ralph Lewis Jr., Herman President and Newton Foster.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery. The family will receive friends from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Allen and Sons Funeral Home.

William F. Leonard

KANSAS CITY — Funeral services for William F. Leonard, 78, formerly of Knob Noster, who died Monday, will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Newcomer's Chapel here.

Burial will be in the Brookings Cemetery.

Civil Defense tests 6 new warning sirens

The testing of Sedalia's Civil Defense sirens at 1 p.m. Monday completed a two-year project aimed at increasing the city's warning system.

According to Pettis County-Sedalia Civil Defense director Jerry Luchs, final electrical and telephone wiring recently was completed on six new sirens in the city.

This was the first full test for all the new sirens, Luchs said, and none malfunctioned.

The new sirens are located at Osage and Henry, 1817 East Broadway, 24th and Washington, 1215 South Limit, 2805 South Clarendon Road, and 900 Thompson Blvd.

There now are 11 Civil Defense sirens in Sedalia. The total cost of the six new sirens was $9,312. Federal and state funds paid for $4,656 of the cost.

Luchs said the sirens were sounded Monday "because we wanted to make sure they were working properly." Civil Defense sirens are tested once a month.

Luchs said the new sirens were ready for sounding "about a month ago," but testing was delayed until telephone lines were connected to each pole supporting a siren. The telephone lines, which merge at police department headquarters, activate a relay which in turn turns on electricity to each pole.

Although the sirens usually are sounded for 30 seconds, Monday's siren test lasted four minutes. "This is the first time we have sounded the sirens for four minutes," Luchs said, "and this time we used different electrical cycles which produced a 'wailing' sound."

Luchs explained the different cycles were used to fully test the new sirens. A special air raid cycle also was tested.

"The air raid or wailing sound gave the effect of one siren and then another siren going off. But all the sirens were sounded at the same time," Luchs noted.

In case of severe weather, Luchs pointed out, a long steady tone will be heard, warning people to "take cover."

Luchs also noted indoor "tone activator receivers" were sounded in local radio and television stations. The receivers sound a warning tone on the air, Luchs said. "People were actually listening," he added. "We received calls from the local stations that people were calling in to find out what was going on."

Parks, pools will open May 30

The Sedalia Park Board Monday night announced swimming pools and parks officially will be opened at 1 p.m. May 30 for summer activities.

Recreation director Roscoe Righter said summer recreation brochures will be distributed in Sedalia schools "by May 16th." They also will be available at the Chamber of Commerce, the Municipal Building and other city offices.

Summer brochures will list swimming pool regulations, park locations and times and dates of recreation department programs, Righter said.

Righter, however, noted swimming pool season coupons books are not yet available.

Adult season books will contain 10 coupons, and children's books will hold 15 coupons. Both books will cost $5. "The coupon books will be available shortly at the park department and can be purchased at the swimming pools once they're open," Righter said.

The board voted in April to lower the daily walk-in pool rates from 45 cents to 40 cents for children, and from 90 cents to 60 cents for adults.

In other business, City Parks Superintendent Jack Couts noted Robinson

Floor Co., Kansas City, is scheduled to begin laying a new rubber-based floor covering "within the week" in the Convention Hall gymnasium. "The staples are working up through the floor and the whole floor has to be replaced," Couts said.

Ben Pummill, board president, said that existing flooring is defective and will be replaced by the firm at no cost to the board. The new flooring should be in place by June 5, he said.

According to Couts, the rubber base can be re-used if taken up properly. "We're looking for an organization who will help us take it up and who can make use of it," he added.

Discussing building repairs, Couts requested the building and grounds committee look into the repair of the Hubbard Pool concession building's roof. He said corners of the building's roof are rotted away and repair or roof replacement is needed. "The building is in a bad area anyway," Couts said. "It was built in a drainage pattern."

In other action, the board agreed to accept a baseball diamond backstop donated by an area farmer. The backstop will be placed across the street from the Liberty Park baseball diamonds or stored until the proposed new park at 2218 South Grand is built, Pummill said.

It also was noted Righter was appointed to the executive board of the 12-member Missouri Park and Recreation Department Association. And three park board members, Jim Grady, W.A. McVey, and Ben Carter will relinquish their positions June 1. Three new board members now must be appointed to three-year terms by Mayor Jerry Jones with approval by the City Council, Couts said.

Third National Bank awarded county deposits

Third National Bank was selected by the Pettis County Court to receive deposits of approximately $1 million in county funds for the next two years after bids from five banks in the county were opened Tuesday morning.

As of Jan. 1, there was a total of $1,187,519.52 in the treasurer's, general revenue, road and bridge and revenue sharing funds of the county.

These funds had been divided among the various local banks in past years. However, after attaining second class status, the county was required to take bids and deposit the funds accordingly.

State statutes require the County Court, on the first day of the May term of court in odd-numbered years, to select depositories for the county's funds, based on the amount of interest offered.

Five other banks in Pettis County, Smithton, LaMonte, Union Savings, Missouri State and Sedalia Mercantile Bank and Trust, also submitted bids which were opened Tuesday morning. It was noted that the Green Ridge Bank, the only other bank in Pettis County, did not submit a bid.

Third National submitted the best overall bids on single maturity time deposits for 30, 60, 90, 120, 150, 180 and 360-day and daily deposits requested by the County Court, with interest ranging from 5.41 to 7.5 per cent.

Prison sentence is ordered in drug case here

Wayne Carmack, 23, Whiteman AFB, was sentenced Monday to three years in custody of the State Department of Corrections by Pettis County Circuit Judge Frank Meyer for possession of a controlled substance, LSD.

Carmack pleaded guilty to the charge Nov. 21, but sentencing was delayed, pending a pre-sentence report.

The original charge against Carmack was for selling LSD to a federal agent on Oct. 9, 1973, in front of the Cue Room, 604 South Ohio. The charge was reduced to possession of a controlled substance as the result of pleas bargaining, according to Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming.

A hearing on an application for probation for Carmack, also known as Doc Cooper, was scheduled for 3 p.m. today.

In other action Tuesday, Leonard Poindexter, 27, 216 East Morgan, pleaded guilty to charges of stealing property valued at over $50, a felony.

Judge Meyer accepted the plea and deferred sentencing to June 9, pending a pre-sentence investigation. A jury trial for Poindexter was scheduled for Tuesday.

Poindexter and James Thornton, 28, Jefferson City, were both charged in connection with the theft of seven cases of liquor on Jan. 26 from a truck owned by Whitaker and Co., 301 East Main.

Poindexter was arrested by Sedalia police on a county warrant on Feb. 3 in the 400 block of North Lamine. Thornton was transferred to Pettis County from Moniteau County, where he was being held for failing to pay a fine on a misdemeanor charge.

Judge Meyer overruled a motion to suppress evidence in the case against Thornton on April 2. Thornton had requested that written and oral statements given Jan. 31 to Moniteau County sheriff's department officials be suppressed at his court trial. According to Thornton's petition, the statements allegedly were made "under threat and coercion" and "because the defendant was in a state of intoxication" at the time.

Poindexter remains in the county jail in lieu of $2,500 bond.

Thornton, free on $2,500 bond, is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court for trial on July 22.

It's time for fresh pineapple

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Right now through June fresh pineapple should be a good buy because during these months it is in greatest supply.

It's at this time of year that we get out our pineapple cutter — one of the best gadgets ever devised — and keep it close at hand. We use it to "cut, core and peel a whole fresh pineapple with one downward pass," as the direction flyer that came with the cutter correctly states it will. The cutter's stainless steel blades and aluminum frame make it rust-proof and it is a breeze to wash and dry. We've never seen these cutters in shops; we bought ours via mail order. We've bought many a kitchen gadget over the years but not all of them have lived up to the makers' or distributors' descriptions that lured us in the first place. We're happy to report that this cutter has.

Be that as it may, it's not necessary to have a pineapple cutter if you want to make Fresh Pineapple Sherbet. In the following recipe, we tell you just how to prepare the pineapple using a sharp knife. However, you do need an electric blender for pureeing half the pineapple for the sherbet; the rest of the fruit is diced to serve as a topping. Fresh Pineapple Sherbet is a light and refreshing dessert both epicureans and calorie-watchers are likely to approve.

Pineapple sherbet...
...light and refreshing

FRESH PINEAPPLE SHERBET

Large fresh pineapple
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar

1 cup milk
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
To prepare pineapple, with a large sharp knife cut off stem and crown ends; cut off rind all around, from top to bottom. With a small sharp pointed knife remove the "eyes." Cut into lengthwise quarters; cut away core and discard.

Cube two of the quarters; in an electric blender puree enough of the cubes — there will be about 1 1/4 cups — to make 1 cup puree. Dice remaining pineapple, sweeten to taste and refrigerate.

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the pineapple puree, lemon juice, sugar and milk. Turn into a freezer tray. Freeze until mushy. Turn into a mixing bowl and beat until smooth. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white. Return to freezer tray, cover with plastic film and freeze until firm before serving with the diced pineapple as a topping.

Makes 1 quart.

A 10-ounce package of fine dry toasted bread crumbs yields about 3 cups.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. If you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

Junior Miss will travel many miles

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Charming Julie Ann Forshee will soon become a real Arkansas Traveler.

As America's Junior Miss, the 17-year-old brunette from Fayetteville, Ark., will travel a lot.

But she made her first airplane ride on her way to Mobile and the 18th annual America's Junior Miss competition with high school seniors from every state.

Miss Forshee wept when she was chosen Monday night. She won a total of $12,000 in college scholarships and was a double winner in preliminary events.

America's new premier high school senior said she sprained an ankle during rehearsals for her talent number, a dance as a music box mannequin. Sunday, and had a sore throat.

"I feel great. I had some pain killers. I'm all mixed up, but happy. I'm so excited about it," she said after the nationally televised finals.

Miss Forshee had won preliminary judging in poise and appearance and youth fitness.

First runner-up was Miss Michigan, Pamela Miller, 17, of Battle Creek, who received a $6,000 scholarship. A $4,000 scholarship was awarded to the second runner-up, Miss Hawaii, Corlis Chang, 17, of Honolulu.

Polly's pointers

Uses for cut yarn sought

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Recently I discovered how useful a double boiler is for heating leftovers. Leftover mashed potatoes can be so dry and are hard to reheat and taste anything like freshly mashed ones. Well, just add some butter, put potatoes in pan over boiling water. They are so delicious my family cannot tell the difference. This works with other foods and also makes a great bun warmer. — MRS. R.C.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is noise pollution on radio and television, especially the commercials that are so loud. They keep shouting at us to buy this or that and all kinds of drugs and aspirin. If you do not have a headache you will have one by the time the commercial is over and then will need two aspirin. I refuse to take anything or buy anything that I have heard shouted about. I do wish they would tone all those commercials down to soothe our nerves. "Easy does it." — M.M.

DEAR POLLY — Attractive children's books are easy to make out of old scraps of material. Cut the edges of fabric squares with pinky shears. Cut pictures the child will like out of magazines, glue one to each piece of material. Last but not least, stitch the pieces together and have a nice book for young children. This is my idea and I am only 12. — KAREN.

DEAR KAREN — Thank you for sharing your idea. You are indeed a clever girl to have come up with this Pointer. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — I vacuum every week but my cleaner does not pick up long hairs, thread and fuzz that are in my shag rugs. To solve this problem I now comb out such particles with my steel bristle wig comb and then vacuum and my rugs look surprisingly clean and new looking. — MISS D.T.

DEAR POLLY — I found that buying a "fatigue" mat to put in front of my kitchen sink was psychologically distressful because of the name "fatigue." I replaced mine with a "Welcome" mat normally used outside a front door. It is hard rubber with grooves in it. When water is splashed from the sink lands in the grooves instead of being tracked all over the floor. Needless to say I enjoy seeing a "Welcome" in my kitchen. — MRS. M.B.

DEAR POLLY — When making a dress or blouse I never sew the underarm seams together until after I have the sleeves in. I can match the notches better and also any gathering on the sleeve is more even. This is good for beginning sewers. — VIOLA.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I would like some suggestions for using various kinds and colors of yarn left from making pictures and pillows. The yarn is already cut into useable lengths. It cannot be used for crocheting unless pieced for covering wire coat hangers. Hope to get some help. — ELVA.

DEAR ELVA — I am sure the readers will be sending suggestions for using your short lengths of yarn. They are always so clever about utilizing anything and everything. — POLLY.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem.

Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

Kissinger's exit is long overdue

The nation can no longer afford the services of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. President Ford should lose no time in finding a qualified replacement.

The debacle in Indochina, which has handed the U. S. its greatest defeat since the Bay of Pigs, is only the latest example of the collapse of our foreign policy, which has largely been formulated by Kissinger and his one-man medicine show.

As recently-revealed documents make clear, South Vietnam agreed to the 1973 Paris accords only after extraordinary pressures were applied by Kissinger and President Nixon. U. S. guarantees to Saigon in the event Hanoi violated the agreement were literally not worth the paper they were written on.

Even once it became clear that North Vietnam was violating the ceasefire in a wholesale fashion, Kissinger and the administration preferred to look the other way. Perhaps the realization that his Nobel Peace Prize was a fraud was too much for the secretary to accept.

None of this has been lost on our other allies around the world, with the result that America's word has never been shakier. We can rest assured that another Communist test of American resolve will not be long in coming.

A conservative view

Corporate friends are badly needed

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — This is annual report time for American corporations, and one by one the glossy publications turn up in the mail. Many of them are masterpieces of graphic art, crammed with color photos and peacock pie charts. Some of them will win prizes — but nearly all of them will lose opportunities.

It is a puzzling thing. American corporations have some of the best minds in the nation in their executive offices. They have public relations advisors who are skilled in their arcane art. They have highly paid legislative counsel. Yet these great companies do pathetically little to advance their own interests in one area where something constructive might be accomplished. They rarely seek to rally investors to their cause.

A friend in the pharmaceutical industry recently devoted a few hours to reading the annual reports of the 15 largest pharmaceutical houses in the nation. He was curious to see if these manufacturers made any effort to acquaint their shareholders with the industry's legislative problems. His labors left him depressed.

Only one of the leaders, Squibb, devoted significant space in its annual report to a discussion of what the pharmaceutical industry has to cope with. A couple of others had a phrase here or a sentence there. One of the largest houses, with sales in 1974 of more than $500 million, offered only this lame paragraph:

"In the United States over the past several years, a number of government programs have been proposed to extend a broad range of health care services to the largest possible group of people. We believe that great care must be exercised in planning the mechanics of these programs to preserve for society the benefits of the nation's flourishing private enterprise in the health care field."

Doesn't that grab you? The author of that tepid mush was talking, in his own feeble way, about a dozen legislative proposals of enormous concern to the pharmaceutical industry. This is an executive who worries constantly about the assaults of Ralph Nader, Common Cause, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Food and Drug Administration, and the senior senator from Massachusetts. But all he could think of to say to his shareholders was the great care must be exercised, etc., etc.

It is incredible. Irving Krostol, one of the country's most brilliant essayists and critics, long ago suggested in the Wall Street Journal that corporations seek to develop their own constituency among their stockholders. His point was that the "other side" has plenty of solid constituencies. Organized labor can marshal a million voters overnight. Consumer groups, environmentalists, and minorities can apply political pressure in effective ways.

The corporations, for their part, have only their own trade associations. Many of their lobbyists perform effectively. But corporations don't vote. They cannot even lawfully contribute to a congressman's campaign. Where is a constituency to be found?

Three possibilities suggest themselves: customers, employees, and stockholders. The customers offer the largest potential, but it is formidably difficult to translate product loyalty into political activism. Not nearly enough is done to inform employees of industry problems and to seek their support; much more could be done in this field.

The shareholders are an untapped political resource. Some 30 million persons own stock in the 4,500 corporations publicly traded. The general custom is to treat them as a meddlesome nuisance. They are not given even the attention that colleges usually give their alumni.

Refugees also need a torch

The Statue of Liberty was gazing toward Europe when I tapped her on her shoulder. "Ma'am," I said, "if you look the other way, we have about 55,000 Vietnamese refugees coming in from Guam and the Philippines. I thought you might hold your torch high and light the way for them."

The statue seemed irritated. "We have too many people in this country now. What am I going to do with 55,000 Orientals?"

Buchwald

"The same thing you did with everybody else. Welcome them. They're tired and they're poor and they are yearning to breathe free."

"And what about jobs? Who is going to support them?" she said petulantly.

"You never worried about that before," I said. "Whoever came to this country eventually found jobs, and almost all of them made very good citizens. There is no reason to think the Vietnamese will be different. After all, you are the mother of exiles."

"Times have changed," she growled. "The American people aren't that thrilled about having a bunch of refugees dumped on them. Who is going to feed them? How many will go on welfare? How do we know their kids won't get in trouble in the streets? We have enough problems in this country without asking for more."

"But," I pleaded, "we're responsible for them being refugees. We screwed up a country like it's never been screwed up before. We supported their corrupt governments, loaded them down with weapons they couldn't use, defoliated their rice paddies and wrecked their families."

"We left the country in a mess. The least we can do is take in whatever huddled masses escaped to our teeming shore."

"That's easy for you to say," the Statue of Liberty replied, "but we have to think of Americans first. They don't want any more foreigners in this country."

"But most of our fathers and grandfathers and great-grandfathers were foreigners. You've welcomed them all. Tell me the truth. Do you have anything against Orientals?"

"I don't personally. But you know how some people are. The Vietnamese have different habits, and they're from another culture. They just don't fit in. Besides I'm supposed to welcome the homeless from Europe. That's why I'm looking in that direction."

"These people need refuge," I protested. "Their lives are in ruins. Remember a few weeks ago when they flew in orphans from Vietnam and Cambodia? Nobody seemed to object to that."

"It's not the same thing," the statue said. "You can adopt orphans. But what can you do with refugees?"

"Help them find homes, jobs, make them citizens."

"It's out of the question. It isn't our fault they lost the war. Look, no one minds one or two Vietnamese in a community. But you're talking about thousands. They'll stick out like a sore thumb. The unions would never stand for it."

"Please don't turn your back on them," I begged. "If somebody just said, 'Welcome. We're glad you came,' most Americans would go along with it. The American people gripe a lot, but they'll do the right thing if somebody leads them. If you could shine your torch toward the Golden Gate Bridge, perhaps the people will be ashamed of the way they've behaved."

The Statue of Liberty turned slowly. There was a tear in her eye. "I've been here so long I almost forgot why I was holding this lamp. Where did you say I should shine my torch?"

"Over there. Hold it as high as you can and point it toward the West so every American can see it. That's it. Now repeat after me, 'Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door.'"

Melting boots

In 1768 a French scientist presented Frederick the Great with a rare pair of rubber riding boots. Unfortunately, vulcanization — the process of heating rubber with sulphur to make it permanently firm and uniformly elastic — had not yet been discovered by Charles Goodyear, and Frederick's boots stuck to his feet in hot weather and cracked in cold.

Detente aids Russia in technical areas

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The diplomatic cables have brought reassurances from Moscow that detente is not dead.

The ruling Politburo not only has dropped hard-liner Alexander Shelepin but also has reaffirmed its support of party chairman Leonid Brezhnev's accommodation with the West. In deference to detente, the Kremlin has even refrained from unseemly crowing over the U. S. setbacks in Southeast Asia.

But, while detente has brought a welcome relaxation of tensions, the United States has paid a price that the American people haven't been told about: The detente has produced a technology drain from the United States to the U.S.S.R., which is costing the United States millions of dollars, thousands of jobs and some valuable scientific secrets.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., has become so concerned over the economic consequences and potential security danger that he has ordered a full Senate investigation.

Here are the details:

The new Soviet-American scientific cooperation has been largely one-way. Soviet technology lags years behind ours in the most important fields, including agriculture, deep sea exploration, computers, aircraft development and space science.

The Russians have little to offer and much to gain, therefore, from the technological exchange. With the active encouragement of the State and Commerce Departments, American firms already have exported, or are planning to export, millions worth of technological information and products.

This has upset U. S. intelligence analysts, who believe the Soviets are trying to exploit American technology primarily for military purposes.

Finished products are sold to the Soviets, who often put them to military use. Several American firms are now bargaining to sell advanced computers and airplanes to Russia. These models are far more sophisticated than anything the Soviets have produced.

U. S. firms can sell licenses, which permit the Russians to build the products themselves. In such cases, the Soviets buy everything including the blueprints.

Valuable information is given up even before the contracts are signed. The Soviets dangle lucrative contracts in front of American companies. While the negotiations are in progress, the Russian seek detailed technical information and send engineering teams to inspect the U. S. plants. By the time they leave, as one source put it, "they have stolen the candy store."

American companies have also offered to build and operate plants for the Soviets. Several proposals are now under consideration, for example, to build huge, sophisticated airplane-manufacturing complexes in the Soviet Union.

Scientists, students and technicians are also exchanged. Under one recent program, 38 Russian students came to the United States to study science, engineering, business and computers. In exchange, 38 American students went to Russia and studied history, political science, sociology and literature.

At least half the Russians who come to the United States under the exchange programs report back to the KGB, the experts estimate. The FBI has quietly asked for additional agents to watch them.

Virtually every American male who goes to Moscow for more than two weeks, on the other hand, finds himself with a Russian girl friend who wants to "practice her English," intelligence sources told us. Most of them are believed to be KGB agents, who are quite versatile in English.

As an illustration of the technology drain, the Soviets are taking full advantage of the detente to catch up to the United States in computer science. This is the key, more than any other single factor, to America's overall technological superiority.

The Soviets are at least 10 years behind in computer development. They have produced only one computer of significant capacity, and it would take about 32 of them to equal one top-line American computer.

The Russians would be even further behind were it not for the advanced computers that the West has already begun to sell to the U.S.S.R. One U. S. firm, Control Data Corporation, has signed preliminary agreements to help the Russians build plants for the manufacture of computers and peripheral equipment.

The Russians have taken pains to insure that they will receive considerable technology in the bargain. One agreement, signed on Oct. 19, 1973, calls for the "exchange of scientific and technical information; documentation in production samples, exchange of delegations of specialists and trainees; organization of lectures, symposium and demonstrations of the production samples; (and) joint research, development and testing, exchange of research results and experience."

The Soviets are also eager to catch up to the United States in the production of wide-bodied jet transports. They have one on the drawing board, which is not due off the production line until 1980. Even then, it will be inferior to the American models now flying.

Holding out possible contracts, the Soviets have obtained detailed plans for wide-bodied jets from Boeing, Lockheed and McDonnell-Douglas. A team of some 40 Soviet specialists has also visited the plants of all three companies.

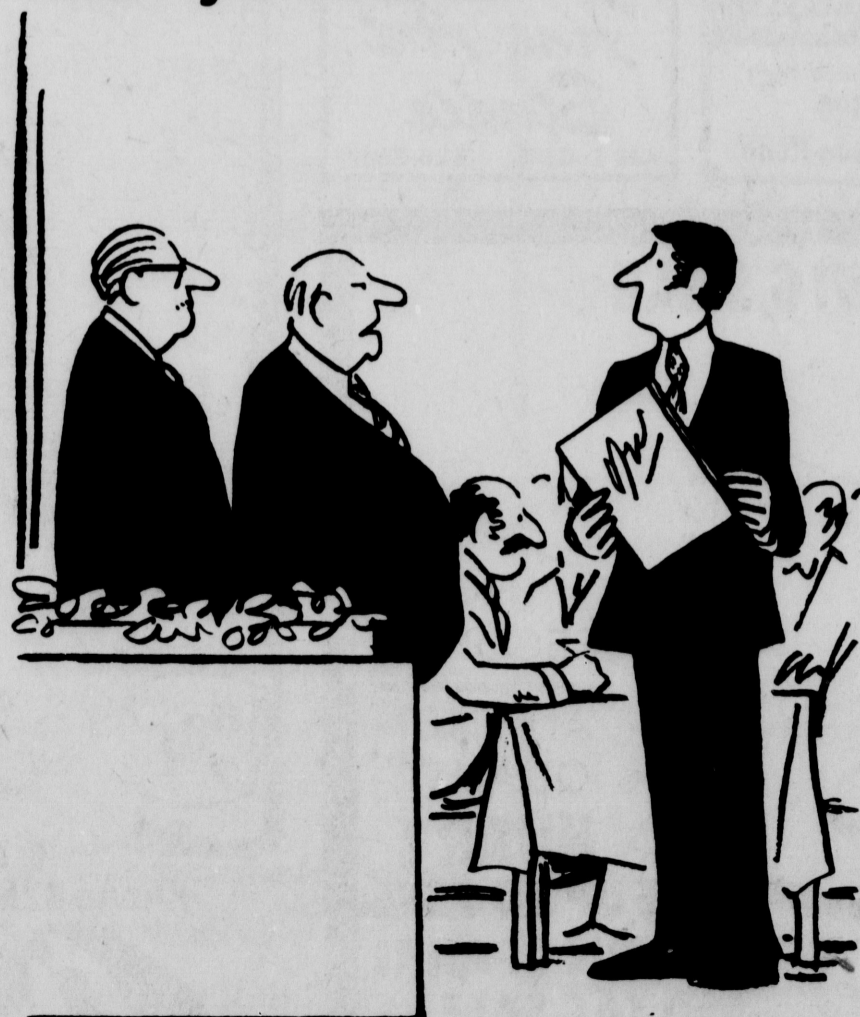

Detente may well be Henry Kissinger's crowning achievement, but it has been a headache for the FBI and CIA.

'Mischlings' face uphill climb in white Germany

By DAVID MINTHORN
Associated Press Writer
WUERZBURG, Germany (AP) — Jimmy is a "GI Kid," a part black German growing up in a society 99 per cent white.

The husky 11-year-old is the son of an unmarried German woman, who is white, and a black American sergeant who was killed in Vietnam.

He is a German citizen acutely aware of his links to American culture.

There are no official figures, but the number of mischling or "mixed" Germans like Jimmy is estimated at over 6,000.

Although their social opportunities have improved since the peak period of mischling births in the postwar occupation era, the "GI Kids" still face great handicaps in establishing themselves and finding mates.

About 150 of these youngsters, most racially mixed, live with their unmarried mothers in this U.S. Army garrison city in North Bavaria, according to the city juvenile office.

Nearly all live on the "wrong side" of the Main River — the working class Zellerau tenement district seldom seen by tourists visiting the city's famed wine taverns.

Jimmy, his 10-year-old sister, two half-brothers, 7 and 4, and their 45-year-old mother share a cramped three-room apartment without bath in a drab tenement in Zellerau near a U.S. Army post. They live entirely from German welfare payments.

"Jimmy's teacher said to send him to high school. He's a misch and he needs education to get a good job. But I no can afford it," said his mother, Amanda, in her erratic English.

Jimmy wants to avoid being apprenticed at age 14. "I want to go to the German air force. I want to fly a jet plane. But first I must finish school," he said.

Hindenburg Kaserne, the U.S. Army post near the family apartment, is a magnet for Jimmy and some 60 other "GI Kids" who live in the surrounding tenement blocks. But they are seldom invited to the installation.

"The military has got so much stuff over there," Jimmy said, pointing toward green combat vehicles parked in a motor pool behind a barbed wire fence.

"The soldiers could show some kids, brown kids like me, how they fix those trucks and jeeps. We want to see how the soldiers work. That would be too nice, too nice," he said wistfully.

"My dad was a soldier — a first sergeant. He was stationed with the Army in Kaiserslautern. I was born there. Then we came here," Jimmy recalled.

Amanda explained, "I met Jimmy's daddy at an Army snack bar where I was working. We never married. He was 22 years in the Army. Then he went to Vietnam and he got it. He got killed."

Jimmy said he seldom encounters overt prejudice, although he is aware of stares and whispered comments from some Germans when he walks in public with his mother.

"In the first grade, the teacher held me back a year. She was crazy. She did not like mischling children," he asserted.

Now a fifth grader, Jimmy is a good student and a leader of his 37-member class.

"In mathematics, I am the first one. In English, I am the second one," he reported. "A girl and I were voted class spokesmen. That's like being president."

Jimmy is an acolyte at a Roman Catholic Church.

"He's the first colored altar boy in 19 years at Holy Cross church," his mother declared. Friedbert Simon, 31-year-old impressed how easily Jimmy was integrated into the church services.

"He's very eager to fulfill his tasks at Mass twice weekly. We want other mischling children to participate but most are as yet too young," the chaplain said.

At 5 feet 9, Jimmy is physically larger than most of his classmates, and one of the best athletes. In the city school cycling championships last year, he was runnerup in his age group.

Jimmy plays goalie on the neighborhood youth soccer team. His idol is Sepp Maier, the goalie of the West German national team.

Jimmy was fathered by an American, but he cannot claim support from U.S. government institutions.

The same is true for other "GI Kids."

Few GI fathers agree to accept legal responsibility for their out-of-wedlock offspring, and none can be forced to make child support payments once they leave West Germany, the juvenile office reported.

"The father of one of my seven children sends a check every month from the States. The welfare office said he was one in a hundred," one unmarried mother remarked.

Mothers of "GI Kids" in Wuerzburg praised a U.S. Army chaplain, Maj. Herbert Turner, who last year started voluntary welfare programs for the children, including on-post Christmas parties, gifts of clothing, summer excursions and Protestant Sunday school.

"He's the first Army chaplain who ever did anything here for the mischling children," Jimmy's mother declared. "Always before, the GI's only took up collections for white orphans."

Chaplain Turner, a 42-year-old black, would like to see the Army start formal support programs for the "GI Kids," including regular visits on post to watch the soldiers at work.

Pointing to Jimmy, Chaplain Turner said, "If the Army would take greater responsibility for this young man, he could develop his inquisitive mind and determination. He would be a first-class citizen no matter where he lived."

Jimmy's mother collects a $182 welfare payment each month, and $313 in children's state subsidies every second month.

The family's only luxury is a color television set.

At wit's end

Tabloid truths

By ERMA BOMBECK

A woman behind me in the supermarket checkout line last week touched my sleeve and said, "Pardon me, dearie, would you mind sucking in your stomach, you're covering part of the headline."

I inhaled so she could read "National Inquisition ... the tabloid that dared tell the truth."

"I knew it," she mumbled. "KARL MALDEN LOSES AMERICAN EXPRESS CARD IN TOLEDO."

"I beg your pardon," I said. "Turn that page, dearie," she said. "I want to read about ANN-MARGRET WEARS SUPP-HOSE."

"Surely you don't believe all that gossip," I said.

"Gossip! What reason would a magazine have to lie about Richard Burton pressing his trousers crooked to hide his bowlegged walk?"

"Well, I ..."

"And I suppose you don't believe that your household toaster can cause learning disabilities among children."

"Oh c'mon... how could a toaster..."

"Why, I was the first one on my block to know that the United States is phasing out commodes. They buried that story right next to an article about, 'IS YOUR SON MAKING NERVE GAS AT CAMP?'"

"That's absurd," I laughed.

"You won't think it's absurd when you put a dime in a slot and the door opens to a missile storage room. I don't know why the press keeps all these things from us." She leaned against me and whispered, "Did you know that a woman in Guatemala gave birth to sextuplets for a publicity stunt? Her husband owned a furniture store."

"A PUBLICITY STUNT!"

"I knew you'd be shocked," she smiled. "I come here for all my news. Why a week without news of the Kennedys is like a day without Anita Bryant."

"I personally feel they should leave those poor people alone."

"I should feel sorry for them," she shrugged. "I can't even get recognized by a butcher when I'm holding a low number."

While the girl was ringing up my order, a headline caught my eye. It said, "A SECURITY GUARD AT LA GUARDIA WHO X-RAYED JACKIE'S PURSE TELLS ALL."

I slipped a copy off the newsstand and as soon as I was in the car began to read. The security guard x-rayed Jackie Schwartz's purse ... a dental assistant from Pennsylvania.

I knew I'd be punished.

Trial continued for auto dealer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Trial was to continue in federal court here today for Cordial D. Gryder, a Rolla, Mo., auto dealer charged with falsifying federal income tax returns for the years 1967-1971.

Gryder's trial, his second on the same charges, began Monday in the U.S. District Court of Judge John K. Regan.

The first trial was declared a mistrial last month by Regan after a juror admitted that he read a newspaper account of the proceedings that included some information not brought out in court.

Regan ruled that the outside information could have biased the juror against Gryder.

On Feb. 1, 1975, a fire swept the upper floors of a building in Sao Paulo, Brazil, killing 189 persons.

MIT campaigns for college jobs

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) —

When market conditions are bad and a product won't sell, advertising can make a difference, even when the seller is a prestigious technological university, the market is summer jobs and the product is out-of-work students.

Faced with slim response from the traditional ways of digging up summer work for students, Massachusetts Institute of Technology took out three ads in the Wall Street Journal. They began: "MIT Students Seek Summer Jobs."

The same day, responses came in from interested company presidents, board chairmen and plant managers and continued for two weeks. The result was about 40 job openings, most of them for young people with training in business or engineering.

"Our usual bush beating efforts weren't coming through," said Lawrence E. Maguire, director of the student employment office. "We wanted to get to the top level; of decision makers, the ones who could say, 'Take one, take two,' and somebody beneath them would have to do it."

The idea was to round up well paying jobs where students could use their training, not spend their time sweeping floors or waiting on tables.

Offers that have come along so far include those from a smaller wholesaler that wants someone to analyze its long-term growth potential, a chemical company that wants help developing new plastic products and a law firm that needs someone to set up a flood insurance program.

"These jobs are tailor-made for MIT students," said Mark W. Crane, a student who came up with the advertising idea.

The ads, which ran from April 10 to April 15, cost $1,400.

It comes out to about $35 per job, and that, says Crane, is pretty good.

"It gives us a good return on our investment," he said. "If we had gotten 10 jobs, we figure that would have been breaking even. Forty is doing a lot better than we hoped for."

Crane, 20, of Kennett Square, Pa., works in the student employment office.

The ad copy says, "Massachusetts Institute of Technology students are talented men and women whose capabilities and contributions you will find rewarding." Then it lists 27 areas of specialty, ranging from aeronautics to urban planning.

Maguire said that several other universities have inquired about the success of the advertising and are now considering similar campaigns themselves.

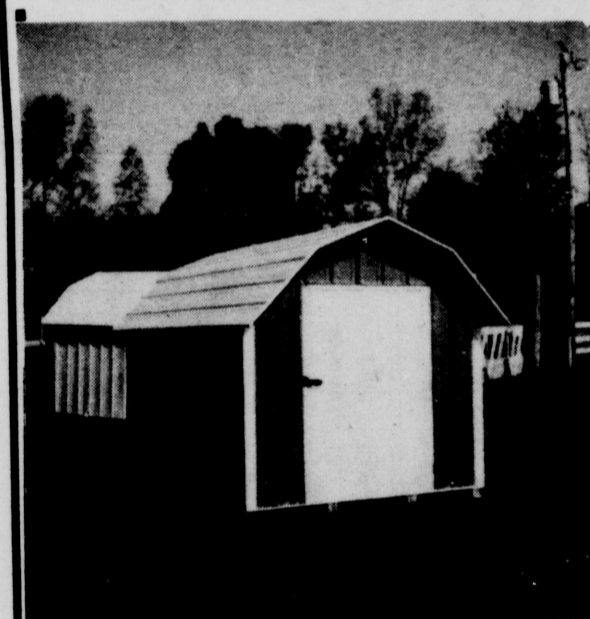

The employment office will try to match the jobs with the best qualified students among the 700 who have come in looking for work, he said.

The usual method of job seeking — mostly sending letters to company personnel offices — netted about 120 offers, Maguire said — "It was pretty bad."

District 1A play

Sherwood thumps Cole Camp

LOWRY CITY — Sherwood edged first-seeded Cole Camp, 3-2, here Monday night to win the district 1A baseball crown and earn a berth in the first round of state play.

David Staley hurled a five-hitter in going the distance for the winners. Staley struck out nine and walked only one.

Cole Camp got to Staley for the game's first runs in the third. Robert Miesner and Marvin Logan singled and came in on Kim Gooch's double.

Sherwood pushed across all three of its runs in the fourth on a three-run homer by left fielder Bill Lawson. Doug Wagner and Terry Meyer each singled to set up Lawson's game winning hit.

Gooch, the loser, got relief help from Mark Glenn in the third inning, after Gooch apparently pulled a back muscle. However, Gooch went back to the mound in the fourth.

Gooch was tagged with only six hits himself; he also struck out six.

The victory for Sherwood, seeded third, puts them in the regional tournament against Green City later this week. The playoffs are sanctioned by the Missouri State High School Activities Association.

Picks up three hits in win

Dodgers two-step

Doug Rau, who was pitching a two-hit shutout for the Los Angeles Dodgers against Houston Monday night, moves rapidly out of the way of this low, inside pitch that nearly hit him in the seventh inning. Rau ended up with his two-hitter as the Dodgers increased their Western Division lead to two and one-half games over idle Cincinnati, 2-0.

Tyson shows stuff in initial start of season for Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mike Tyson is back in the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup, and he may stay there awhile.

The fiery shortstop, the forgotten man in a Cards winter trade, got his first start of the season Monday night and made the most of it with three hits in an 11-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I couldn't come to the park tomorrow if I didn't put him in the lineup again," conceded Cards Manager Red Schoendienst, who was pleased by Tyson's role.

"Mike played for us all last year and did a good job," Schoendienst acknowledged.

"I'll say one thing for the little guy. He hasn't grumbled, and his attitude has stayed good."

Tyson, subbing for slump-ridden Ed Brinkman, blasted a two-run triple to highlight a six-run Cards first inning against Phils left-hander Steve Carlton, 1-4.

Afterward he singled in the third and smacked a two-run homer in the fifth off reliever Ron Schueler to cap his 3-for-4 performance.

"I can't remember if I've ever had four RBI in a game or not," admitted Tyson, whose home run was his third in three major league campaigns.

"But I'll say this. Out of the few games we've played this year I feel that coming off the bench is probably the hardest thing to do."

The beneficiary of the Tyson hits plus Card homers off the bats of Reggie Smith and Ted Simmons was Bob Gibson, 1-3, who pitched seven innings.

"There's nothing that can make a pitcher feel any better than those early runs," said

Gibson, who gave way in the eighth to an aching knee.

Carlton, an ex-Cardinal troubled by high deliveries, was battered for eight hits, including Smith's two-run homer in the second, before departing with the Phils behind 8-1.

"What are you going to say?" the tall Carlton shrugged. "The curve ball got me in trouble. The curve ball got me out of it."

A floating pitch the 5-foot-9 Tyson rammed into right-center for his triple was as damaging to the Phils as any of 14 Cardinal blows.

"I got lucky and hit that pitch," maintained Tyson, who connected with Carlton's count 2-2. "He threw two fast balls right by me. I just got lucky and hit the high curve."

Meadows champ

DAYTON, Ohio — Bobby Meadows of Dallas officially won the 79-day long American Bowling Congress tournament.

Boston takes aim at Capitol Bullets

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics were scheduled to take in a movie today before flying to Maryland for Wednesday's National Basketball Association playoff game against the Washington Bullets at Landover.

But it's doubtful that popcorn accompanied the feature—a re-run of the team's 101-90 victory over the Bullets Saturday in third game of the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final.

The Celtics go into Wednesday's tilt one game down with Coach Tommy Heinsohn vowing to continue the pressure defense tactics which helped the team to victory Saturday.

But the big question is whether the Celtics can regain their shooting form.

After Saturday's victory Heinsohn said, "We were very effective on defense and got the second shots on the offensive boards. However, we didn't shoot well and that bothers me."

Washington Coach K.C. Jones admitted the effectiveness of Boston's defense. "Their defense caused us to lose our poise for the first time since early in the Buffalo playoff series. They forced us out of our patterns and forced us to take a lot of bad shots," he said.

The teams return to Boston Garden for a Friday night game and the Celtics have announced that the game is a sell-out.

Van Lier takes pressure off Chicago's front line

OAKLAND (AP) — The scoring fireworks of the Chicago Bulls-Golden State Warriors playoff battle have moved from the frontcourt to the backcourt.

Norm Van Lier, Bulls guard, took the scoring pressure off forwards Bob Love and Chet Walker in game No. 3 Sunday in Chicago. His team leads 2-1 in the National Basketball Association Western Conference finals going into tonight's fourth game here.

"Norm did what he had to do," said Chicago Coach Dick Motta. "He penetrated the middle and got our offense going."

On defense, reserve center Nate Thurmond was the key, Motta said. The former Golden State star was effective in shutting off driving efforts by guards Butch Beard and Charlie Johnson, forward Rick Barry and other Warriors.

"The coach told me to take care of the middle and allow only one shot. And luckily, our guys were hitting," said Thurmond.

Van Lier hit for 35 points and Jerry Sloan added 15 from the backcourt. Love and Walker settled for 19 each.

In the series opener here nine days ago, Barry scored 38 points to lead the Warriors to a 107-89 victory, with Love's 37 points saving the Bulls from complete embarrassment. Van Lier and Sloan had 14 points combined.

In game No. 2 at Chicago, Walker and Love were the Bulls' top scorers and Barry again led Golden State, with 26 points.

But a shot Barry missed, a shot he realizes he never should have taken, is still the talk of the NBA series.

"We got a game back we seemingly had lost," Thurmond said, and his former teammate

Barry was the first to admit he "just took a dumb shot."

Barry left his feet, found no one to pass to and fired up a shot with 11 second left in the game and the Warriors ahead 89-88. The Bulls took advantage of the unexpected gift and won 90-89 on Tom Boerwinkle's lay-up in the final seconds.

Tonight and Thursday night, the Bulls will be out to improve on their all-time playoff road record of 2-25. Victories on the Warriors' court would make game No. 6, which would be played over the weekend in Chicago, unnecessary.

Strain of playoffs

Indiana Pacers' coach Bobby Leonard, the dean of ABA coaches with a record of 415-266 since taking over in 1968, shows the strain of winning. His efforts have been successful. He has three league titles to his credit, and the Pacers are shooting for another, which would be the fifth in the eight-year history of the league if he and the Pacers are successful.

Finley puts Washington on waivers

OAKLAND (AP) — Baseball never could quite accept Herb Washington.

"He's a great athlete, but he's not a baseball player," Reggie Jackson said early in the 1974 season about the track star who crashed the roster of the world champion Oakland A's.

Owner Charles O. Finley, who lured Washington off the pro track tour last year, didn't expect Washington to become a complete ballplayer.

gave him a glove and bat to dress up his locker—but they considered his presence mostly as something between a danger and a joke.

"I don't think he should be used in the World Series," Bando said during last fall's confrontation with the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers. "If he costs us a game in the regular season, there may be 100 more games to make up for it, but not in the Series."

And in game No. 2 of the World Series, A's Manager Alvin Dark substituted Washington for a surprised Joe Rudi as the A's threatened to come from behind in the ninth inning. Dodger reliever Mike Marshall picked Washington off first base.

"The only embarrassing thing about that was that it happened before 60 million people watching on television," said former Dodgers star Maury Wills, who gave Washington a crash course in base running before the 1974 season.

But Herb Washington no doubt will be best remembered for that face-down moment in the Dodger Stadium dust.

"He contributed tremendously to the success of the ballclub in 1974," said Finley, who added that the off-season loss of pitching star Catfish Hunter hurt Washington's chances of staying with the A's.

Pitcher Roger Nelson was promoted from the minor leagues to take Washington's spot on the roster for tonight's game here against the California Angels.

"I'd feel sorry for him if he were a player," said A's captain Sal Bando, with no malice intended.

Washington made friends in the clubhouse—teammates even of a downtown hotel to make room for conference delegates with reservations for Sunday.

With the help of Aeros personnel, a local apartment complex owner agreed to house the team. Although the apartments were unfurnished, the owner agreed to rent beds and furnish toiletries.

Ed Brooks, Aeros director of marketing and sales, said Nordiques officials inspected the apartments and seemed pleased but Monday moved into another hotel that had some cancellations of conference delegates.

Nordiques facing housing problems

HOUSTON (AP) — If the Houston Aeros defeat the Quebec Nordiques in their World Hockey Association World Cup final series, the league should consider giving an assist to the Offshore Technology Conference.

With 40,000 conference delegates jamming virtually every available hotel space, the Nordiques have made more maneuvers off the ice than on, trying to keep a roof over their heads while they battle the Aeros for the WHA championship.

"The nation's sixth largest city and we can't find a place to stay," said Nordiques Coach Jean-Guy Gendron, who's moved his team to three different locations since arriving here last Friday. "It's pretty tough to prepare to play."

Sam Houston Coliseum definitely will be available to the Nordiques tonight when they resume the best-of-seven with Houston leading 1-0 after a 6-2 victory in the opener here Saturday.

After Saturday night's loss, Quebec was forced to check out

Four-event card featured tonight

Tiger frosh wind up year with 5-2 mark

The Smith-Cotton freshmen track team wound up its 1975 schedule with a 78-40 dual win over Boonville in Jennie Jaynes Stadium Monday.

The victory gave the Tigers a 5-2 record.

The 440-yard relay team of Ed Kitchen, Darrin Cline, Brian Buckner and Rick Hawkins kept their undefeated string intact with a win in that event. They went undefeated through the entire season. They also established a record during the season with a time of :47.5.

Although the 880-yard relay team didn't compete in Monday's meet, they also went undefeated during the season.

The mile relay team won all but one of its dual meet competition. They lost their opener, but won the rest of their races.

In Monday's competition, Smith-Cotton won 10 of the 14 events. They also finished one-two in the 120-yard low hurdles and the 880-yard run.

Flyers can wrap it up

New York Islanders hope that history will be able to repeat

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The story is a familiar one: the New York Islanders are one loss from playoff elimination, the Philadelphia Flyers one victory from moving on in Stanley Cup competition.

The Islanders went into the last game of their National Hockey League preliminary round tied 1-1 with the New York Rangers, then won the best-of-three series in overtime. They went into the fourth game of their quarter-final with the Pittsburgh Penguins with three consecutive losses, then came back to win four in a row and advance to the semifinals against the Flyers.

Philadelphia, meanwhile, took a week off with a first round bye, breezed past Toronto with two shutouts in a four-game sweep of the Maple Leafs and have whitewashed the Islanders twice in extending to 21 games their unbeaten streak.

The inevitable question is asked: can New York repeat its four-game comeback against the Stanley Cup champions? The answer is provided rapidly by the looks on the Islanders' faces.

"Well, one thing you should know by now: our guys are going to fight until the very last second and it's not over," said Coach Al Arbour. "Somebody has got to win the last game and it won't be over until then."

Meanwhile, Flyers coach Fred Shero maintains that his club can do better against the Islanders—a club he insists gave the Flyers a tough time this season.

"The Islanders played tougher hockey and better hockey against us than any club in hockey—even the Montreal Canadiens, the Buffalo Sabres, and so on," he said. Montreal or Buffalo will provide the opposition for the winner of this series when the finals open next week.

Unless New York can perform a second miracle, the finals will open in Philadelphia. But nobody is writing off the Islanders—least of all the Flyers.

Five to be inducted into trapshooting Hall

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Five shooters will join 37 others in the Amateur Trapshooting Association Hall of Fame this summer, the association announced Monday.

The inductees will be: —Herb Bush, Canton, Ill., who attended 40 grand arms and as of 1974 registered 89,275 singles targets.

—Marvin Driver, Council Bluffs, Iowa, president of the American Trapshooting Association in 1973 and winner of 10 state titles and eight zone titles between 1953 and 1973.

—Iva Pembroke Jarvis, Phillipsburg, Kan., a school teacher who led the women's single averages and doubles averages six times.

—Julius Petty, Stuttgart, Kan., won 25 state crowns from 1928-1952.

—Arnold Riegger, Seattle, Wash., ran 1,429 straight clay targets without a miss in 1959, a record until 1967.

The shooters will be inducted during the 76th Grand American tournament Aug. 18-23.

Must game says Buffalo's Smith

BUFFALO (AP) — "What I need right now is one more surprise," Buffalo Coach Floyd Smith said as he prepared his Sabres for Game 5 tonight against Montreal in their National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoff.

"This team has surprised me all year in how badly it can play one night and how good it can play the next," Smith said. "We have to win this hockey game. It's as simple as that."

Buffalo won the first two games of the best-of-seven series on its own ice, 6-5 in overtime and 4-2. But in Montreal, the young Sabres were shelled 7-0 and 8-2 as the Canadiens stormed back to even the series at 2-2.

Burns advances

PINEHURST, N.C. — Defending champion George Burns from Port Washington, N.Y., scored a 4 and 3 victory over Wake Forest sophomore Mike Dore in the opening round of the 75th North and South Amateur golf tournament.

Countdown to race time

Unser now knows value of time at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Al Unser is usually one who thinks a month is too long to spend getting ready for the Indianapolis 500. But this year he has little different attitude.

The handsome, wavy-haired younger brother to Bobby is trying to work a unique new race car up to speed in time for pole position qualifying Saturday.

"I've always said, 'How come you have such a long month here?'" he explained, "because when you come here all ready to go, it is a long month. But we're here with a new car that needs some test work, and I wish I had two months of running to get ready now."

The car is a 1975 Parnelli model, designed by Maurice Philippe who drew up the previous Parnelli Jones team models, but of a more streamlined design. It's smaller than the popular Eagles and McLarens, and powered by a modified Cosworth Ford Formula 1 engine.

"If it works out, I have the advantage," said Unser of the edge he is hoping will get him into the winner's circle here for a record-tying third time. Since his triumphs in 1970 and 1971 and a second in 1972, his efforts here have netted him no better than 18th place.

But even if the Parnelli-Cosworth combination works, Al isn't going to enjoy sorting out the problems.

"I never have liked to test new cars," he said. "It's really hard work, and it can be very frustrating."

"I would rather just unload the car and be ready to go."

The Parnelli-Cosworth was tested at Ontario, Calif., but was not ready for the race. Al put an Offenhauser-powered Eagle on the front row, but he dropped out early with mechanical woes.

Al is prepared to jump back into the Eagle here if it appears the new machine won't be ready.

"I feel I can run for the front row," he said of qualifications. "But I don't know about the pole. A.J. Foyt may have that locked up."

So. California signs Dave Roller

ANAHEIM (AP) — The Southern California Sun has announced the signing of its first player for the 1975 season, defensive tackle Dave Roller.

Roller, 6-foot-2 and 265 pounds, led the Sun in tackles with 164 and in sacks with 17 in 1974. He has played two years of professional football after being chosen most valuable player on the University of Kentucky team in 1970.

The average age for the Masters golf tournament winner is 32.45 years.

South took a long time to bid his hand. When he finally bid six notrump he felt that he might be missing a grand slam, but that anyone should be happy about collecting the rubber and small slam bonus.

He also took a long time to play the hand. At least he wasted a lot of time worrying about spilt milk after he had chucked the whole thing at trick two.

Trick one was easy. He won in dummy. Then he led a low club and went up with the king after East followed with the five spot. West showed out and there was no way for South to win 12 tricks.

A careful player would have done his thinking before playing to the second trick. He would have seen that four club tricks would have been enough for the slam since there were eight top tricks in the other suits. He would also have seen that he would have no problem if the clubs broke 2-2 or 3-1.

After this preliminary thought he would have led the same low club from dummy. East would have followed with that same five spot and careful South would have put on the eight, not the king. This would be quite likely to cost him a 20-point overtrick, but what is 20 points against about 1,500?

What do you do now?
A — Your hand is worth a bid beyond game. Remember your partner accepted your first slam try when he bid four diamonds. Bid five diamonds to show your second round control.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid five diamonds and your partner bids five spades. What do you do now?
